MEDICINAL.

GIRL'S SECRET.

"Aunt Cassie came to visit us and she saw I was nervous, had the flutters all the time, and she asked me many questions, and finally said, 'Why, you dear, sweet girl, it's not your temper that's bad, it's your constitution that's out of kilter. You sit right down now and write a letter to Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., tell him all your symptoms'—and so I did. It wasn't long before I had a long reply, carefully going over my case and telling me just what to do. I date my present happiness and little Cupid's return to the very day I sat down to write that letter to Dr. Pierce, for his advice was so good and his 'Favorite Prescription' worked such a complete change in me that now my former cheerfulness and good health—not to say anything of good looks—are restored to me. I have summoned Tom back to my side and we are to be married in June."

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

It is natural that a woman who has been cured of womanly disease by 'Favorite Prescription' should believe that it will cure others. It is natural too that she should recommend to other women the medicine which has cured her. It is such commendation which has made the name of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a household word for the past thirty-eight years.

VIRGINIA CONGRESSMEN.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Times-Dispatch has the following to say of the Virginia Congressmen:

Representative Rixey, of the Eighth district, took an active part in framing the naval appropriation bill. He consistently fought the propositions to increase all naval appropriations, and while he was invariably defeated, it is also true that he succeeded in keeping down the appropriations. He will be the chairman of the naval committee when the democrats secure the House. Mr. Rixey introduced a great many bills during the session, some of which were enacted. He made a strong fight for his bill, providing for the admission of Confederate soldiers to national soldiers' homes, but when he discovered that the Confederate veterans themselves were fighting the bill, he ceased to press it. He will have it up at the next session, and it would not be a surprise if it became a law.

Representative Swanson is the busy bee of the House. One moment he is seated at his desk listening to the debate. In a minute he is on the other side of the House urging a republican to see the error of the position on some measure, and a moment later is in the cloak room, impressing his views on a colleague who cannot look at a pending bill as Swanson does. Mr. Swanson is one of the hardest-working men in the House. There is nothing which may affect his district and the State of Virginia generally too small to receive his closest attention, and he given his hardest work; and within the next ten minutes he may be at the north end of the Capitol, urging Senator Martin or Senator Daniel to help along a measure before the Senate, in which he was interested when it was up in the House. It is said that Mr. Swanson can come to Congress from the Fifth Virginia district as long as he chooses, which is not surprising, but he is determined to become Governor of Virginia. Sunny-tempered, always ready to laugh or to listen to a good story, there is one way in which the ire of the nervous Fifth district representative may always be excited. Just say to him that it is rumored that he is about to announce his withdrawal from the race for the gubernatorial nomination. That is a never-failing way of making Mr. Swanson reveal his ability to get mad. "I had rather be defeated twice than stay whipped after being beaten once," is a favorite expression. Mr. Swanson is an exceedingly valuable member of Congress. He is a man of wide influence on the democratic side, and he has much to show for his work in past years, though he has not obtained much legislation in this Congress.

Mr. Hay, of the Seventh district, is one of the most prominent men on the democratic side. I alluded to the fact Saturday that he had not missed one roll call at the recent session. He reaches the House early and stays late. If there were to be a democratic majority in the next House of Representatives, he would not be far from the leader of the body. Mr. Hay's resolution for the investigation of the affairs of the Postoffice Department, the only one of many introduced which was adopted, brought to the House the information from the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General implicating members in postal frauds, as that official termed it, but in reality only showing that they had worked to secure all they could for their constituents. Mr. Hay made a speech a short time before the session ended, in which he presented facts showing that the civil service record of President Roosevelt, the great apostle of civil service reform, was far worse than that of any of his predecessors, and that he had had the civil service rules suspended in order to appoint friends to positions many more times than Cleveland, Harrison and McKinley put together.

It was chiefly owing to the efforts of Mr. Hay that a Senate bill providing for marking the graves of Confederate soldiers who died in northern prisons was reported. He also fought successfully for the bill providing for a national commission to have charge of the national parks, and succeeded in having incorporated in it a provision that one of the commission should be a member of the Army of Northern Virginia, thus insuring that all of the parks to be established in the future should not be located on fields fought over by the western armies. Mr. Hay was one of the conferees on the army appropriation bill, in which capacity he was instrumental in preventing a large increase in the size of the army, and also in preventing an appropriation of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the commencement of construction of a wagon road in Alaska, which would have finally cost the government five million dollars. Mr. Hay secured the passage of several pension and claim bills, and was the patron of a large number of bills affecting his people which never became laws.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mechanic, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "A patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and had not an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons.
